JOIN THE MOBILE APP REVOLUTION — WITH...

keste

The mobile mindset is fundamentally changing the way we do business. Whether you want to innovate, collaborate, differentiate…modernize, personalize, or incentivize, there is an app (that can be designed) for that.

Where is your enterprise mobile app?

The lives of your customers, partners and employees are turning increasingly mobile….are your enterprise applications falling behind?

Extend your enterprise applications to a mobile app.

Therefore, building an app that makes it easy for your customers, partners and employees to do business with you is one of the smartest moves you can make. Allowing these groups to access your products and services — from any device — makes it super easy for them to work with (and for) you and remain engaged with your brand.

But many companies are facing a conundrum. In order to profitably build a mobile app (in terms of both time and money), they need to not only extend their enterprise application but leverage their existing infrastructure.

Good apps change your systems. Great apps change your business.

But to truly change your business, you need purpose-built mobile apps that extend your enterprise applications and deliver real business results.

So align your business goals, employee / partner needs and your current technology infrastructure by using Keste's strategic mobile services. At Keste, we deliver killer mobile apps —built on the force.com platform —that don't just change your system; they change your business. We do this by:

- Developing and delivering custom, feature-rich Salesforce mobile apps quickly, seamlessly integrated with your back-office ERP system and other 3rd party cloud solutions.
- Designing intuitive and productivity-enhancing apps that are quickly embraced by customers, partners and employees.
- Managing and enhancing our mobile apps via our managed services program.

So work with Keste to re-imagine your core business processes; AND discover new opportunities for engagement, growth, and productivity AND get your new killer mobile app.
